WE BELIEVE IN FORM + FUNCTION

Already have drawings for your project? That's fantastic! Need some guidance? We can help! At Schlosser Signs we believe in having your cake and eating it too. Successfully blending form AND function is not just achievable, but a necessity.

When it comes to signage, good design doesn't stop at aesthetics; it encompasses installation, durability, and future maintenance, ensuring you and your team don't have to worry about our products as time goes on. Our designers live and breathe the mantra that a great design is built for you and looks out for future you, while transforming your vision into both a stunning and functional design. What does that mean? Your sign will not only turn heads, but it is designed to be manufactured to stand the test of time. Is it magic? Maybe? All we know is that the Renaissance Masters have nothing on our designers, and we are proud to offer their talent to you and your team.

MORE THAN A SALES TEAM

Let's be honest, "sales" can be a loaded word. But at Schlosser Signs, it looks a little different. Our sales specialists are less concerned with closing deals than about opening possibilities and creating long-term relationships. They take the time to understand your business, your goals, and your vision, then build a custom signage plan designed to actually work for you.

Backed by a team of estimators, designers, engineers, project managers, fabricators, and installers, our sales specialists combine deep technical knowledge with creative problem-solving. When all of these are put together it means we can develop thoughtful, success-driven signage packages. They ask the right questions, listen closely, and connect the dots others might miss, making the entire process feel clear, collaborative, and dare we say, easy.

THE DIFFERENCE YOU'LL FEEL:

- No generic solutions, everything is built with intention
- Clear, confident guidance from day one
- A team that sticks with you beyond the finish line
- Fewer surprises, smoother decisions
- A process that feels organized, collaborative, and (dare we say) easy

THINGS WE TAKE SERIOUSLY:

- Understanding your business and your goals before recommending anything
- Developing thoughtful, long-term relationships
- Asking questions no one else thinks to ask
- Balancing budget, visibility, and lasting performance for every project
- Bringing the right experts into the conversation at the right time
- Good coffee, great ideas, collaboration, and curiosity

PROJECT MANAGERS OR SUPERHEROES?

We don't expect everyone to understand how to navigate signage, which is why every project is assigned to one of our valiant project managers. Capable of streamlining logistics, heavy lifting, tracking every detail of your project (even if there are a bajillion details), and mountain climbing, your project manager is a multi-talented maverick. Not only are they agile and super smart, they're also constant advocates for your project's budget as well as your timeline.

As the stewards of our mission to make sign buying easy, our project managers deliver a premium customer experience with stellar results. Is there anything they can't do? They'd humbly say they have limits, but we are confident they can do anything.

METICULOUS IS OUR MIDDLE NAME

Every project we manufacture at Schlosser Signs is treated like a VIP (Very Important Project). From the meticulous attention to detail given by our highly-skilled craftsmen and women, to our commitment to using high-quality materials and state of the art equipment, our fabricators leave us in a perpetual state of awe with the beauty and quality they produce day after day.

Rest assured, before your sign is handed over to the installation team for delivery, it is put to the test with our Product Testing and Quality Control procedures. For projects large, small, and in between, we are obsessed with your sign and the success of your project. The attention to detail we pour into our work is how we have become known as “Schlosser Meticulous Signs” (we’re not really called that, but it made a nice tie-in with the title).

READY TO MOBILIZE

While our installation team, full fleet of trucks, and equipment are impressive, when a project requires something extra, we also have a specially curated list of vetted professionals. These pros are experts in engineering, crane operation, excavation, drilling, masonry, electrical, scaffolding and more.

COMMANDING ATTENTION

Conceptualizing and manufacturing your sign is exciting, but the real magic (at least to us) is the installation. Seeing your sign commanding attention from the world, drawing people to your vision is always impressive (the lights can be pretty cool too)!

Our skilled and certified team of installers, combined with our full fleet of installation trucks and equipment, have the capability to handle full-scope projects as well as contract installations. Everything from interior directionals and ADA signs to 40ft tall letters 200ft in the air (yes, we really did that), we have the capabilities, skill, grit, and determination to get it done. Looking to partner with Schlosser Signs for an installation-only project? We are ready and excited to be a part of your sign's road to completion.

CERTIFICATIONS

Schlosser Signs offers pathways for our fabricators and installers to obtain certifications in the following skills:

- RIGGER/SIGNALMAN

- WELDING
- BOOM & SCISSOR LIFT OPERATION
- COMMERCIAL DRIVER'S LICENSE

- CAD/CAM MACHINE OPERATION
- BALLROOM DANCING

(JUST KIDDING... WE JUST WANTED TO SEE IF YOU READ THE WHOLE LIST)

All of our crane operators are certified and qualified through the National Commission for the Certification of Crane Operators. Schlosser Signs fully endorses and supports the national certification program offered by the NCCCO.

WHEN SIGNAGE BECOMES ARCHITECTURE

Some projects need more than signage as we generally know it.

Architectural features are where signage becomes part of the structure itself. These are fully custom elements designed to integrate with a space, support a brand, and shape how people experience it. From large-scale identity features to environmental graphics and one-of-a-kind architectural accents, this work goes beyond communication. It influences how a space looks, feels, and functions.

And unlike a typical sign, this isn't something you can just swap out later if it's not quite right. Not applied. Not an afterthought. Built to belong.

This kind of work takes serious coordination between design, engineering, and fabrication to get everything aligned, visually, structurally, and in the real world where it actually has to perform. At Schlosser, those teams work together from the start, partnering with architects, designers, and project teams to make sure every detail is thought through before anything is built.

Because when signage becomes part of the environment, it has to do more than look good. It has to work like it was always meant to be there.
